

ESTABLISHED AUGUST 24, 1852.

The Intelligencer.

THE Mountaineer Reporter of Dallas publishes the address of J. Dallas Ewing, Esq., to the American people down there on the Fourth of July. We are sorry to see that Dallas alienated the patriotic women of Marshall county by addressing his audience as "ladies and fellow-countrymen." Just as though the fair mothers and daughters of that good old county were all foreigners and had really no heritage in the Fourth of July. That will never do, Dallas. Don't you know that the Goddess of Liberty is an American woman?

At last Peter Cooper, the Greenback candidate for President, has a newspaper advocate in West Virginia. The Parkersburg Times of the 12th comes across for him, and holds his name at the head of its columns. The Times is an independent paper with Republican proclivities, and is edited by Mr. E. T. Drach, a gentleman well known to many persons, especially Germans, in this city. It seems to us that the example of the Times affords a leadership for the Steubenville Gazette to follow. The Gazette is now sitting on the fence, waiting a limb to rest on. Why not fly up at once into the greenback tree, and, taking up a position there, call upon all the fowls of the air to come and roost likewise amidst the green branches and green leaves of the greenback tree.

A TREASURY statement has just been printed in reply to a call from the Senate, whereof the salient points are printed in a letter to the Toledo Blade, showing the losses by defaulting officers, thieves, frauds, &c., which the Government has sustained during the last forty years. The tables are made up of two parts—first, the "net loss," which covers only the action of officers and agents, second, the "gross loss," which embraces the double handling of money, the negotiation and receipts of loans, &c. The table below is made up on this plan:

	Net loss	Gross loss
Administration	per $1,000	per $1,000
Jackson (last term)	1.15	2.15
Van Buren (Florida)	1.15	2.15
Harrison and Tyler	1.15	2.15
Polk	1.15	2.15
Taylor and Fillmore	1.15	2.15
Pierce (Mexican war)	1.15	2.15
Buchanan	1.15	2.15
Lincoln (Rebellion)	1.15	2.15
Lincoln and Johnson	1.15	2.15
Grant (first term)	1.15	2.15
Grant (second term)	1.15	2.15

A second table gives the loss on each thousand dollars in the different departments:

	Net loss	Gross loss
War	1.15	2.15
Naval	1.15	2.15
Indian	1.15	2.15
Internal	1.15	2.15
Postoffice	1.15	2.15

Public lands	1.15	2.15
Internal revenue	1.15	2.15
Debt	1.15	2.15
Interest	1.15	2.15
Transit	1.15	2.15

The Removal of Postmaster Jewell.

A special dispatch to yesterday's Cincinnati Gazette professes to give the reason for the removal of the late Postmaster-General, as follows: "The immediate cause of the change, as made yesterday, was a desire to make a move that could help matters in Indiana, or rather prevent the retirement of Mr. Pratt from doing damage there. It had come to be understood that Mr. Pratt would not submit to certain restraints which the President had fully determined to make, and that he would effect in consequence. To neutralize the effect of this in Indiana, the removal of Jewell and the promotion of Tyler to a Cabinet position was at once decided upon."

We adhere to our opinion expressed upon the first receipt of the news, that mere political considerations will not satisfy the President for this act on the part of the President. It is contrary to his well known method of doing business. He did not remove Casey, the Collector of customs at New Orleans, when the whole country would have been gratified by his removal. He did not remove Leet, Stocking & Co., at New York, until after their squelching was clamorously and long demanded by the public there and elsewhere. He would not remove Tom Murphy, the Collector of New York, when there was such a vigorous outcry against keeping him in office. He appointed Simmons to be Collector at Boston when nobody in Massachusetts scarcely save Ben Butler, wanted him appointed. He permitted his son Fred, a now fledged second lieutenant from West Point, to be made Lieutenant-Colonel on Sheridan's staff, over the heads of old officers, when the whole country said that such an appointment was a gross piece of nepotism. He appointed Bos Shepherd to a high and responsible position in the government of the District of Columbia, when the appointment was so notoriously offensive that the Senate would not confirm it. He appointed Fisher—a man of well known antecedents—and was compelled, at last to withdraw the nomination. He kept Delano in his Cabinet when he ought to have been turned out, and he tried to have Williams made Chief Justice of the United States in disregard of all the proprieties of that high position.

And so we might go on enumerating instances after instance in which the President has shown that he is not influenced either by considerations of public policy or the good of the Republican party, in making removals or appointments. It is an unfortunate feature of his character that he pays very little deference to public opinion in such matters. He consults mainly his own likes and dislikes, or the prejudices of a few political favorites immediately around him, in making appointments.

As regards the reasons for the removal of Postmaster General Jewell, we pretend not to divine them further than to say that they are most likely of a personal character. We are not willing, after all that has happened, to take for granted that they relate to the supposed good of the Republic.

ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT TO THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER

WASHINGTON.

President Grant Requests Mr. Bristow to Appear as a Witness. WASHINGTON, D. C., July 13.—The following letter was yesterday sent to ex-Secretary Bristow by the President:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, July 12.

Dear Sir:—Through the press I learn that the committee of Congress investigating the late frauds have summoned you as a witness, and that you, with great propriety, as I think, have declined to appear, claiming that what occurred in the Cabinet, or between a member of the Cabinet and the Executive, is privileged, and that a committee of Congress has no right to demand an answer. I appreciate the position you have assumed on this question, but beg to relieve you from all obligation of secrecy on this subject, and desire not only that you may answer all questions asked relating to it, but wish that all members of my Cabinet, and ex-members of the Cabinet since I have been President, may do so in relation to the same matters. With great respect,

Your obedient servant, U. S. GRANT.
